Dear Dr. Naperi:

The Camarines Sur Police Provincial Office, in fulfillment of its core mandate to uphold law enforcement and safeguard public welfare within the province, is undertaking a research initiative focused on the etymology/etiology of rape cases in Camarines Sur. This study aims to examine the underlying factors contributing to the incidence of rape, encompassing sociocultural dynamics, institutional responses, media influence, and the progression of legal frameworks.

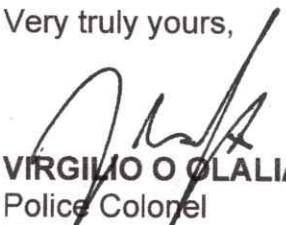

By analyzing case data, identifying prevailing patterns, and evaluating existing policy structures, the research endeavors to develop a comprehensive understanding of the issue. The ultimate objective is to formulate evidence-based recommendations that will enhance preventive measures, strengthen protective mechanisms, and support systemic reforms aligned with justice and public safety imperatives.

As partners in change and development, we firmly believe that collaborative engagement between law enforcement agencies and academic institutions is essential in addressing urgent societal challenges. In this regard, we respectfully seek the support and cooperation of your esteemed institution in undertaking the proposed research initiative.

This partnership will be instrumental in formulating comprehensive conclusions and actionable recommendations aimed at the resolution and prevention of rape cases within our beloved province of Camarines Sur.

We would be grateful to receive your confirmation through PMAJ ROMMEL R SAN ANDRES, Acting Chief of the Plans and Programs Unit, via mobile number 0917-127-5710.
